On motion the resolutions were adopted.

The Bishop appointed the following persons as a Committee to prepare and make report upon the matter referred to in the second resolution.

Rev. E. H. Porter, Mr. D. L. D. Granger, Rev. Charles H. Babcock, D. D., Mr. E. D. Bassett, Mr. R. H. I. Goddard.

RECISTRAR'S REPORT.

The Registrar respectfully reports that he has received the usual Convention Journals from nearly all the Dioceses and Missionary Jurisdictions in the United States. Mr. Harold Brown has given a copy of the office to be used on June 6th of each year, in the Berkeley Chapel, Middletown. From the vestry of St. John's Church have been received copies of a Sermon by the Rev. C. A. L. Richards, D. D., entitled,

"Twenty Years Ministry in St. John's Church, Providence!" By purchase has been secured a volume containing among other treatises, "The speech of Mr. John Checkley, with The Jury's Verdict, etc."

How to care for the yearly increasing number of journals, pamphlets and books is a matter which must soon be decided.

Respectfully,

S. H. WEBB, Registrar.

PROVIDENCE, June 10, 1890.

PROVIDENCE, June 10, 1890.

On motion, a recess was taken till three o'clock P. M.

At three o'clock the Convention again assembled, when hymn 277 was sung.

After the reading of the Lord's Prayer and Collects, and the singing of the 326th hymn, an Historical Discourse was given by the Right Reverend Thomas March Clark, D. D., LL. D., Bishop of the Diocese.

The Te Deum was sung and the Benediction pronounced by the Bishop.

The Convention then proceeded with the Order of the Day.

Reports were read and received as follows:

Report of the Board of Audit and Finance. [See Appendix.]

Voted, That the assessments recommended by the Board of Audit and Finance for the Bishop's Salary and Convention expenses, be ordered by this Convention.

Report of Trustees of the Episcopal Fund. [See Appendix.]

Report of the Board of Trustees of Churches and Glebes.

REPORT OF THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF CHURCHES AND GLEBES.

The church buildings in the care of this board are believed to be in a fair state of repair.

Since the last report, the church building in Scituate has been put in thorough repair externally. While something has also been done to repair the injuries resulting from long disuse, the interior of the building has suffered. The funds for this purpose were contributed by a member of this board. The church at Burrillville remains unoccupied and should be sold.

A technical question has arisen as to the authority of this board to make payment of the funds in our hands "for the benefit of Pontiac" at the request of the Treasurer of All Saints' Church, Pontiac. As the church has been built at Pontiac with an agreement that this money should be paid over, we ask authority by explicit vote to make such payment and present herewith a resolution conveying such authority.

The following list comprises all the churches and other real estate belonging to the Convention in the care of this board:

Burrillville, Calvary Church, with land.
Cumberland, St. Mary's Chapel, with land.
East Providence, St. Mary's Church, with land.
Jamestown, St. Matthew's Church, with land.
Johnston, St. Peter's Church, (Manton), with land.
Middletown, Berkeley Memorial Chapel, with land.
Providence, Church of the Saviour, with land.
Providence, St. Thomas's Church, with land.
Providence, two lots on Mt. Pleasant, near Academy avenue.
Pawtucket, Church of the Good Shepherd, with land.
Scituate, Trinity Church (South Scituate), with land.
Warwick, St. Philip's Church (Crompton), with land; and Rectory, with land.

Warwick, St. Barnabas's Church (Apponaug), with land. Warwick, St. Mary's Church (Warwick Neck), with land.

Respectfully submitted for the Board,

EDWARD D. BASSETT, Secretary.

Voted, That the Board of Trustees of Churches and Glebes are hereby directed to pay over to the Treasurer of All Saints' Church, Pontiae, the fund in the hands of such Board "for the benefit of Pontiae."

The Board for the Relief of Widows and Orphans, etc. For financial report. [See Appendix.]

REPORT OF THE BOARD FOR THE RELIEF OF WIDOWS AND ORPHANS, ETC.

The Board for the Relief of Widows and Orphans, etc., etc., respectfully report that $1,850.00 have been paid during the past year to seven beneficiaries. The principal of the fund is now $24,526.62, having increased $364.30 since the last report. Of the forty-five parishes in union with the Convention, thirty-nine have contributed to the fund, while six have neglected this Canonical requirement, viz.:

St. Philip's Church, Crompton; St. Bartholomew's Church, Cranston; St. Peter's Church, Narragansett Pier; Church of the Good Shepherd, Pawtucket; Trinity Chapel, Pawtuxet, and St. Andrew's Church, Phenix.

Contributions have also been received from All Saints' Chapel, Newport (not in union with the Convention); St. Mary's Chapel, Warwick Neck (where only summer services are held); and an individual contributor in Centreville (through the Woman's Auxiliary).

One of the beneficiaries of this fund, who for several years has been greatly helped by the allowance made to her, has recently by some change of fortune, found herself in an independent position. She at once voluntarily declined further aid, and in grateful recognition of the assistance so long given her has made such disposition of her little property that more than the amount she has received during all these years, will at her death, be added to our fund, Such pleasant testimony both to the good done by this fund, and to the gratitude with which the annuities are received, is well worthy of record.

The present number of beneficiaries is six, and their annuities amount to $1,700.00 yearly.

For the Board,

CHARLES T. DORRANCE, Secretary.

PROVIDENCE, June 5, 1890.

The amount of the annual appropriation is $2,950. The number of stations is seventeen.

These are matters of interest:

- St. George's, Lincoln. The indebtedness upon the Rectory is steadily decreasing. It is now $4,199.
- St. Philip's, Valley Falls. The fund for a Chapel has been increased during the year by several gifts, and amounts to $728.
- St. Thomas's, Greenville. The lay-reader, Mr. C. E. Preston, has been ordained to the Diaconate.

Christ Church, Providence. The new Church has been consecrated and the Board of Missions is no longer needed for the support of the Parish. It has received no assistance since the first of April.

Ascension, Wakefield. The Rev. Medville McLaughlin, of Maine, took charge of this Mission, September 22, 1839, and it is prospering in his care.

St. Barnabas's, Apponaug. There has been no appointment in this Mission for some months. Services have been maintained by the people, but the Mission is now placed under the charge of the Rev. Daniel Goodwin, of East Greenwich.

St. Thomas's, Eagle Park. After the removal of Rev. Mr. Snelling to Philadelphia, this mission was placed under the pastoral care of the Church of the Redeemer, with Mr. Frank Appleton as lay reader. A large lot of land has been given and a church will be built as soon as possible.

Swedish Episcopal Mission, Providence. The reader in charge, Mr. A. Z. Fryxell has been ordained to the Diaconate, and is carrying on the work successfully. Services are held also every Sunday in S. Paul's Church, Pawtucket.

Mission of the Advent, Pawtucket. The Board has taken this Mission from April 1, 1890. The work is promising, and the population is rapidly increasing.

St. Gabriel's, Lafayette. The Rector of St. Paul's, Wickford, has found encouraging prospects in this village, and the Mission has been adopted, and the Rev. A. J. Thompson has been appointed Missionary from April 1, 1890.

In accordance with Canon I., Section 7, we propose as an apportionment of the amount needed for the current year, an assessment on each parish, of seven-eighths of the sum assessed last year by the Board of Audit and Finance for the Bishop's salary and Convention expenses. The amount necessary is $2,950.

The following table of contributions for the last year has been furnished by the Treasurer, and over against it are placed the suggested assessments for last year and the year to come:

The following parishes and missions have not contributed during the year:

Ascension, Auburn. Trinity, Pawtuxet, St. John's, Newport.

St. Paul's, Providence.

St. Mary's, South Portsmouth.

The work of the Board during the year has increased. The transfer of Christ Church, Providence, to the list of self-supporting Parishes has not relieved the Board at all, but only opened the way to the acceptance of two other stations. We come before the Convention about $20 in debt. If all the Parishes had contributed, and all had reached the amount of the suggested assessments we would not be in debt at all on the day of the Convention. Yet, as before, we would have nearly an empty treasury, with $700 to pay in stipends the last day of June. While we have been able for a long time to report the Board out of debt, but with no reserve for the next payment—it has always been by some extraordinary efforts to save ourselves from the disgrace of coming before the Convention in arrears. Because we are not actually owing the salaries of Missionaries, and have no notes outstanding, the Diocese gets the impression that we are doing well and have all the money we need. The truth is we begin each year with a loan, and carry the increasing burden through all the year in anxiety and fear. It seems as if the Diocese might devise some better and more comfortable means for carrying on its own missionary work. There is no endowment, we have to rely upon the quarterly or annual, or altogether unsystematic offerings, with now and then no offering at all. We appeal to the Rectors, for to them the Diocesan Missionary needs ought to be known and appreciated. If they have the matter at heart, the people will give and the important work will be done.

Respectfully submitted for the Board,

E. H. PORTER, Secretary.

For Report of the Treasurer of the Board of Missions. [See Appendix.]

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON CHRISTIAN EDUCA-TION.

The Committee on Christian Education, beg leave to report that, owing to the fact that feasible openings in the several Parishes were not presented, the Committee have not held during the past year any conferences upon the religious training of the young, such as in years past have been found so acceptable and profitable. They are, however, in receipt of invitations from some of the clergy to hold conferences in their Parishes in the near future, and it is hoped that in the early autumn the original line of work may again be taken up.

The Committee are happy to report that the recommendations of the English Church and of the Committee on Sunday Schools of the American Church with reference to a day of special intercession for Sunday Schools, has met with a cordial response in many quarters. The Sunday Schools, of Providence, united in a service of intercession with the celebration of the Holy Communion at Grace Church, and in other Parishes, the day received suitable recognition as the subject became the theme for the Sunday following. The Committee would earnestly urge the observance of this day of special intercession in the future, and also ask the clergy to invite the holding of Conferences in their Parishes upon the subject of Christian Education at such times as may be found convenient.

Respectfully submitted,

W. N. ACKLEY, For the Committee.

The Report of the Committee on the increase of the Episcopal Fund was read and placed on file.

REPORT OF THE COMMITEE ON THE INCREASE OF THE EPISCOPAL FUND.

The Committee appointed at the last session of the Convention to secure, if possible, an increase of the Episcopal Fund to the sum of $100,000, respectfully report:

That they met for organization September 26, 1889, and elected Mr. Rathbone Gardner their Treasurer. That they issued circulars to the clergy asking the nomination of a layman in each Parish who should appoint two others to assist him, and in consultation with his Rector be a local centre for the work.

As soon as said layman was nominated, your Committee sent him a circular asking him to canvass his parish thoroughly and obtain pledges to be paid into his hands before May 1, 1890.

In many cases, additional letters of explanation were written.

A further appeal was sent forth in May both to the Chairmen of the Local Committees and to the Rectors to urge immediate attention to the matter.

Your Committee regret that their efforts should have met with but partial success.

THE BISHOP'S ADDRESS.

Brethren of the Clergy and Laity:

Immediately after the meeting of our last annual Convention, on the 14th of June, I admitted the Rev. George R. Spink to the order of priesthood, in Grace Church, Providence. The candidate was presented by the Rev. Henry Bassett.

On Sunday, June 16th, in St. Stephen's Church, Providence, I ordained as Deacons, Mr. Arthur Rogers, presented by the Rev. W. F. B. Jackson, and Mr. Frederick W. Davis, presented by the Rev. Dr. Fiske.

On the 29th of June, I confirmed one person in St. Stephen's Church, Providence.

On Sunday, June 30th, I confirmed eleven in St. Mark's Church, Warren. This was the Rev. Mr. Ackley's last Sunday in the parish which for many years he had served so faithfully.

On the 17th of August, I laid the corner-stone of a Guild House in Wickford, which has since been completed, and on the following Sunday, I confirmed seventeen in St. Paul's Church, Wickford. A very interesting service was held towards evening in the old Narragansett Church, which was crowded with worshippers, who lifted up their voices with one accord and made the building ring with the familiar tunes sung there ages ago.

On Sunday, August 25th, I confirmed two in St. Paul's Church, Portsmouth. On the same day I visited the Chapel of the Holy Cross, Middletown, and confirmed one person from St. Mary's Church, South Portsmouth.

On Sunday, September 1st, I visited St. Mary's Church, Warwick.

On Sunday, September 8th, I confirmed six in St. Columba Berkeley Memorial Chapel, Middletown. The Rev. John B. Diman, who has been in charge of this Chapel, is now in Europe, and the Rev. Arthur Rogers supplies his place.

On Sunday, September 15th, I confirmed three in St. Matthew's Church, Jamestown. The new church is overcrowded during the summer months.

On Sunday, September 22d, I admitted Mr. Henry Dixon Jones to the Diaconate in All Saints' Church, Pontiac. The candidate was presented by the Rev. Prof. A. V. G. Allen, D. D. The Rev. Mr. Jones is now in charge of this flourishing parish. On the same day I confirmed one person in St.

John's Church, Providence.

On the 26th of September I consecrated Christ Church, Providence. Notwithstanding the unfavorable weather, the new edifice was filled to its utmost capacity, with an uncommonly large attendance of clergy. At last, the hopes that were cherished for many a long year are consummated, and at a moderate cost a spacious building has been erected, beautiful to the eye, and fitted with every convenience for carrying on the work of the parish. The attendance upon the services has greatly increased since the opening of the church, and the indefatigable Rector cannot help feeling that he is already amply repaid for all his labors and sacrifices.

On the 28th of September I laid the corner-stone of the new Church of the Messiah, Providence, further notice of which will appear in this address.

During the month of October I was in attendance upon the General Convention, and on Sunday, the 27th, I confirmed five in St. Thomas's Church, Greenville. The Rev. Charles E. Preston is now in charge of this parish, and to his indefatigable exertions everything in and about the building has been much improved and put in excellent condition.

On Sunday, November 3d, I re-opened St. Mary's Church, East Providence, which had been closed for repairs, and the introduction of entirely new sittings, with the improvements in the edifice, has made it much more comfortable and convenient than it was before.

On the 5th of November, I attended the quarterly meeting of the Women's Missionary Auxiliary in St. Stephen's Church, Providence. The presence of several of our Missionary Bishops and other official representatives of the general work, gave a peculiar interest to the meeting, and the church was hardly large enough to contain the delegates in attendance. The Auxiliary is constantly enlarging its field of action, and doing a great work for the Diocese and the Church at large.

On Sunday, November 10th, I was present at the first service held in the Church of the Epiphany, Providence, after its enlargement. It is now a spacious and symmetrical edifice, and yet it is evident that the increase of attendants will soon exceed even the present capacity of the church.

On Sunday, November 17th, I confirmed two in St. Mark's Church, Riverside. It is very much to be desired that the incumbrance on the Rectory should be removed, and thus leave the parish entirely free of pecuniary burdens.

On Sunday, November 24th, I confirmed six in Emmanuel Church, Manville.

On the 17th of December, I confirmed one person in private from St. Stephen's Church, Providence.

During the month of January, at the request of the Bishop of the Diocese, I confirmed twenty-seven at Ward's Island; one in Calvary Church, and forty-two in St. George's Chapel, New York, making seventy in all.

On Sunday, February 2d, I admitted Mr. John Matteson to Deacon's Orders in the Church of the Ascension, Auburn. The candidate was presented by the Rev. William N. Ackley.

On Sunday, February 9th, I confirmed twelve in the Church of the Good Shepherd, Pawtucket, and fifteen in St. George's Church, Central Falls.

On Sunday, February 23d, I confirmed seventeen in St. Paul's Church, Pawtucket, and ten in Trinity Church, Pawtucket.

On the 27th of February, I attended another very pleasant meeting of the Women's Missionary Auxiliary, in Christ Church, Providence. The church was again over-crowded, and the most liberal hospitality was extended by the enterprising Rector and congregation to their numerous visitors.

On Sunday, March 2d, I confirmed seventeen in the Church of the Redeemer, Providence.

On the 7th of March I confirmed one person in Christ Church, Providence.

On Sunday, March 9th, I confirmed thirty-one in Christ Church, Westerly.

On Sunday, March 16th, I confirmed sixteen in St. Mark's Church, Warren, making twenty-seven in all during the year.

I am happy to say that the Rev. Alva E. Carpenter has returned to the Diocese and become the Rector of this church, with an excellent prospect of usefulness opening before him. In the afternoon I confirmed four in St. John's Church, Barrington. The chapel erected in memory of the late lamented Mr. Burrington, is now entirely completed and furnished with everything needful, and the small, simple edifice which the Rev. Mr. Chapin found here when he came to take charge of the parish, has already assumed the appearance of a spacious and picturesque mass of buildings.

On Sunday, March 23d, I confirmed twenty-one in St. James's Church, Woonsocket. A large and very attractive structure has been erected on the church grounds, which contains ample accommodations for the Sunday-schools, Bible classes, libraries, reading rooms, sewing rooms, social gatherings, and a gymnasium, and for every other purpose embraced in parish work. Since my last visit, St. James's Church has sustained an irreparable loss in the sad and untimely death of Mr. Henry Andrews, one of the wardens, and the most efficient worker in the parish. On the occasion of my visitations his house has been my home for years, and I know how much he must be missed in the household circle. I also well know how indefatigable and untiring he has been in serving the Church, and how difficult it must be to find anyone to take his place there.

On the 27th of March, I confirmed nine in the Chapel of the Advent, Pawtucket. The chapel was filled to its utmost capacity, and everything indicates that this is destined soon to become one of our most flourishing stations.

On the 28th of March I confirmed three in the Church of the Saviour, Providence. The Rev. Edward L. Drown has accepted the rectorship of this church, and we trust that an abundant blessing may attend his labors.

On Palm Sunday, March 30th, I confirmed ten in St. George's Church, Newport, and at the same time and place, admitted Mr. Charles E. Preston to the holy order of Deacons. The candidate was presented by the Rev. Dr. Gilliat. Mr. Preston is now in charge of St. Thomas's Church, Greenville, and the prospects of success in that parish were never brighter than they are now.

In the evening of March 30th, I confirmed sixteen in Emmanuel Church, Newport. With the spacious enlargements that have been made in connection with this church, and the improvements and adornments of the building, everything pertaining to the premises may be regarded as complete; every dollar of debt has been removed and the parish is now in the full tide of temporal and spiritual prosperity.

On the 1st of April the Rev. Herman Lilienthal was ordained Priest in St. James's Church, Woonsocket. The candidate was presented by the Rev. William Sheafe Chase. Mr. Lilienthal is the Rector of Emmanuel Church, Manville, much to the satisfaction of all who are interested in the welfare of that parish.

On the evening of Thursday in Holy Week, April 3d, I confirmed twenty-three in the Church of the Epiphany, Providence.

On Good Friday evening, April 4th, I confirmed seventeen in Christ Church, Providence, making eighteen in all. A special interest was manifested on this occasion, it being the first Confirmation held in the beautiful new church.

On Easter Day, April 6th, I confirmed thirty-five in Grace Church, Providence.

On Sunday, April 13th, I confirmed seventeen in St. John's Church, Providence, making nineteen in all; and on the same day confirmed one sick person in private from St. Stephen's Church, Providence.

In the evening of April 13th, I confirmed eight in St. Bartholomew's Church, Cranston. It is very much to be desired that a new church might be erected in this place.

On Sunday, April 20th, I confirmed sixteen in St. Michael's Church, Bristol, and seventeen in Trinity Church, Bristol.

On the 24th of April Mr. Axell Z. Fryxell was admitted to Deacon's Orders in Grace Church, Providence. The candidate was presented by the Rev. H. M. Bartlett. The Rev. Mr. Fryxell is now in charge of the Swedish congregation worshipping in Grace Church chapel.

On Sunday, April 27th, I confirmed three in St. Mary's Church, South Portsmouth, making four in all.

On Sunday, May 4th, I confirmed eleven in Christ Church, Lonsdale, and in the evening confirmed six in St. John's Church, Ashton.

On the 8th of May, I confirmed six in St. Andrew's Church, Phenix.

On Sunday, May 11th, I confirmed sixteen in All Saints' Memorial Church, Providence; and in the evening confirmed two in St. Paul's Church, Providence. The Rev. Percy Barnes is now in charge of this parish.

On the 13th of May, I confirmed two in St. Mark's Church, Riverside, making four in all.

On the 14th of May, I confirmed eight in St. Mary's Church, East Providence.

On Ascension Day, May 15th, I admitted Mr. Arthur

Morgan Aucock to Deacon's Orders in All Saints' Memorial Church, Providence. The candidate was presented by the Rev. Dr. Henshaw, and is now officiating as assistant minister in the same church. The Rev. Lorenzo Sears is also assisting in All Saints' Memorial Church.

On the afternoon of Ascension Day, I confirmed twenty-four in St. Stephen's Church, Providence, making twenty-eight in all.

On the 16th of May, I confirmed eleven in St. Philip's Church, Crompton.

On Sunday May 18th, I confirmed eleven in the Church of the Ascension, Wakefield. The Rev. M. McLaughlin has become the Rector of this church, and everything indicates great prosperity. In the evening, I confirmed three in St. Peter's Church, Narragansett Pier.

On Whitsunday, May 25th, I confirmed twenty-one in St. James's Church, Providence, and in the evening confirmed thirty in the Church of the Messiah, Providence, one of the number being from St. John's Church.

On Whitsun Tuesday, May 27th, I consecrated the new Church of the Messiah, Providence. This costly and beautiful church is the gift of a churchwoman, whose munificence we have more than once been called to record. The necessity of a new church in this part of the city was imperative, as the original building was fast going to decay, but it would have been a very serious undertaking to secure the means for building such an edifice as is needed if the parish had been thrown upon its own unaided resources. The entire burden has now been lifted from the people, and they enter upon the possession of a sanctuary which is a model in its architectural proportions, richly adorned, all its woodwork of solid oak, and the massive walls constructed of the richest and rarest stone.

On the 28th of May I confirmed four in Trinity Church, Pawtuxet. This parish is now in the charge of the Rev. Samuel G. Babcock.

On Trinity Sunday, June 1st, I admitted the Rev. Lloyd Morton Blodgett to the Priesthood in St. Luke's Church, East Greenwich, where he is now employed as an assistant minister. The candidate was presented by the Rev. Daniel Goodwin.

In the afternoon, I confirmed four in St. Barnabas's Church, Apponaug. This mission is now connected with the church at East Greenwich, and in spite of all the discouragements that have been encountered, everything seems at present to be established upon a permanent basis.

In the evening, I confirmed nineteen in St. Luke's Church, East Greenwich.

On the same day, Mr. Richard M. Sherman was admitted to Deacon's Orders by Bishop Potter, of New York, at my request.

On the 4th of June, I confirmed six in All Saints' Church, Pontiac.

On the 5th of June, I confirmed nine in St. Thomas's Church, Providence. A spacious and eligible lot of land has been presented to this parish by the family of the late Mr. George H. Corliss, and a subscription is now in progress for the erection of a new church, which is very much needed. A neat and appropriate plan has been drawn, and the people have contributed as liberally as their means will allow; so that with some further aid from the friends of the church we may soon hope to see a commodious edifice erected in this growing section of the city.

On Sunday, June 8th, I confirmed thirty-three in Trinity Church, Newport; and on the same day, confirmed seventeen in St John's Chapel, Newport. The Rev. S. Wilson Moran, has resigned the Rectorship of this parish, and it is now supplied by a clergyman from the Diocese of Maryland.

I am happy to say that, at the present moment, there is not a vacant church in the Diocese.

CONFIRMATIONS.

The whole number confirmed in the Diocese is six hundred and twenty-nine.

CONSECRATIONS.

There have been two churches consecrated: Christ Church, Providence, and the Church of the Messiah, Providence.

CANDIDATES FOR HOLY ORDERS.

There are now on the list eight candidates for Holy Orders: Frank Truman Greene, Frank L. Titcomb, Frank Appleton, John P. C. Shaw, C. A. Denfeld, Louis C. Sanford, Frederick B. Cole, Hugo Klaren.

POSTULANTS.

There are two postulants: Clarence E. Ide, Edward J. Burlingham.

ORDINATIONS.

There have been eight persons admitted to the Diaconate: Messrs. Arthur Rogers, Frederick W. Davis, Henry Dixon Jones, John Matteson, Charles E. Preston, Axel Z. Fryxell, Arthur Morgan Aucock, Richard M. Sherman. There have been three Deacons admitted to the Priesthood: the Rev. Messrs. George R. Spink, Herman Lilienthal and Lloyd Morton Blodgett.

CLERGY TRANSFERRED TO OTHER DIOCESES.

The Rev. Messrs. E. S. Rousmaniere, to Massachusetts; John G. Hammarsköld, to New York; Frederick M. Davis, to New Jersey; Samuel Snelling, to Pennsylvania.

CLERCY RECEIVED INTO THE DIOCESE.

Rev. Messrs. Edward L. Drown, from Florida; Alva E. Carpenter, from Vermont; Medville McLaughlin, from Maine; Lorenzo Sears, from Vermont.

THE GENERAL CONVENTION.

The General Convention in October passed off with little comparative excitement. Some of the more prominent matters, which had been the occasion of considerable controversy before the Convention assembled, were not brought before that body at all, or disposed of without debate by the standing committee to whom they were referred.

The consideration of the proposed changes in the Book of Common Prayer was brought to an end, and if all has not been gained which the originators of this movement hoped for and expected, it must be acknowledged that little has been done to disturb the minds of those who would have preferred to let the book alone; while I think it will be generally felt that, upon the whole, the slight alterations and additions that have been made are an improvement. At any rate, it is well that practices that were coming into very general use without any specific authority, and seemed in the nature of things to be inevitable, should have received, as they have done, the final approval of the Church. The new Hymnal was courteously entertained and as carefully examined as the circumstances would allow, and then re-committed for emendation, to be finally disposed of at the next Triennial Convention. There is reason to believe that, with the light which the criticisms of the press and the discussions of the House of Bishops and the House of Clerical and Lay Deputies have given to the committee, they will be able, three years hence, to present such a hymnal as will meet with the general approval of the Church.

It is to be deplored that so much valuable time in such great deliberative bodies as the General Convention should be wasted in the protracted discussion of matters which are outside of the purposes for which the Convention exists, and have no practical bearing whatever; of which we had a notable example in the wearisome and profitless discussion of the Nicene Creed in the House of Clerical and Lay Deputities.

The missionary sessions of the Convention were the most interesting and profitable seasons of all, and the crowded attendance and the rapt attention of the audience on these occasions were a sufficient indication of the estimate with which the religious public regarded them. The speeches of our Missionary Bishops and others were full of most valuable information, and no one, after hearing what was said there, would be likely to declare, as has so often been done, that "Missionary meetings are always dull." The warmth of the speakers kindled a corresponding fire in the hearts of those whom they addressed, and the Church at large is now experiencing throughout its length and breadth the elevating and quickening influence that was stirred in these missionary sessions of the Convention.

NECROLOGY.

There has been no death among our own clergy during the past year, but one of our Bishops has been taken away, who was for many years actively identified as a Presbyter with the interests of this Diocese, and whose voice was once often heard in our Conventions. The Rt. Rev. Dr. Thomas Hubbard Vail was consecrated Bishop of Kansas, Dec. 15, 1864, and died last October, while on his way to attend the General Convention in New York. He was a man of whom no evil thing could ever be said, gentle and kind to all, patient in tribulation, devoted to his Master's work, possessed of a sound and well-balanced mind, comprehensive in his views, fond of the old paths, and the old truths and the old Church, and tolerant of all opinions that did not draw a veil between the believer and his Saviour. The infirmities of age of late years have prevented him from discharging in full the duties of his Diocese, and it is to us an interesting fact that the clergyman who was called to be his assistant, the Rt. Rev. Dr. Thomas, received his Orders in this Diocese, where he was born, his father having been for a long series of years a member of our Convention and a warden of St. Paul's Church, Wickford. Not less than eight of our Bishops were natives of Rhode Island-Benjamin B. Smith, George Burgess, George M. Randall, Henry N. Pierce, M. A. D. W. Howe, William S. Perry, Alexander Burgess and Elisha S. Thomas, five of whom still survive.

CONDITION OF THE DIOCESE.

There is nothing that calls for special remark in the present condition of the Diocese. Our charitable institutions, St. Mary's Orphanage and the St. Elizabeth Home, continue to struggle on, with applications for admission beyond their capacity to meet, and all the while embarrassed for the want of funds to carry on their benevolent work. There ought to be no difficulty in a Diocese like this in finding the means to support these charities liberally, and I would once more express the strong desire that further endowments should be made by our liberal and wealthy people, in order in some degree to relieve the managers from the necessity of presenting such constant and painful and discouraging appeals for aid.

I once more commend to your notice the cheap little journal published in the interest of the St. Mary's Orphanage, as it furnishes a very satisfactory view of the work that is done there, and of the needs of the institution.

The Women's Missionary Auxiliary is all the while enlarging its work, the quarterly meetings are crowded as they never were before, and almost every parish in the Diocese is actively co-operating with the society in its noble work. During the last year we have been favored with the presence of a large number of our Missionary Bishops, and of others, both men and women, who are actively engaged in extending the Gospel and the Church, and their stirring words have awakened an interest that will not soon die out. It proves to be a great blessing to a parish, whenever the Auxiliary holds one of its sessions there, while the general effect is to bind the parishes of the Diocese together in a stronger and more loving bond of unity.

There is a gradual and steady growth in the Diocese; the Swedish Emmanuel Church has secured an eligible lot of land, and one of our noble churchmen, who is all the time expending his wealth in good works, has promised to erect a church for this thriving congregation entirely at his own cost.

Services are held regularly by the Swedes in Newport and Pawtucket, which are well attended, and this is becoming a very interesting branch of our Church work.

The St. Andrew's Mount Pleasant Mission in Providence are also straining every nerve to build a church for the large congregation who are now obliged to meet in an inconvenient upper hall, that is used for all sorts of miscellaneous purposes.

A very flourishing mission has been established in Lafayette, and through the liberality of the same gentleman, who has agreed to build the Swedes' Church, the salary of a missionary for that station has been secured.

Meanwhile, let us all pray that, with all this outward and visible growth, there may be a corresponding advance in spiritual holiness, so that in all we do Jesus may be glorified, and our souls brought nearer to Him.

THE COMMUNION SERVICE,

WITH THE FOLLOWING COLLECTS, EPISTLE AND GOSPEL.

THE COLLECTS.

Almighty Father, Whose ways are from everlasting, and Who hast never left Thyself without witness here on earth, we thank Thee for the direction and the help given unto our fathers in establishing a branch of Thy Holy, Apostolic Church in this Portion of Thy heritage. For the precious inheritance we have received from them, for the present strength and size of the tree which Thy right hand hath planted, and for all the hopes that await us in the future, we bless and magnify Thy Holy Name, beseeching Thee to accept this our humble tribute of praise and thanksgiving, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

O God the Son, the Saviour of mankind, Who hath promised to be with Thy Church to the end of the world, we implore Thee to keep this portion of Thy great work under Thy constant guidance and protection. May no erroneous doctrines and no evil practices ever come between us and Thee; may we never be led astray into forbidden paths, nor look for help and salvation to any but Thee, Who died upon the cross for us, and in Whom alone we have eternal life. Amen.

O God, the Holy Ghost, giver of all spiritual grace, inspire the ministers and members of Thy Church, here assembled in Thy name and presence, with the spirit of Him, Who, when He was upon the earth, went about doing good. May this branch of Thy Church ever be a source of refreshment and blessing to the world, active and zealous in every good word and work, shedding a holy influence upon our government, our schools, and all our social institutions; helping the poor, comforting the afflicted, sustaining the weak, defending the oppressed, uplifting the fallen, and saving the lost,—thus doing the work for which the Kingdom of God was begun upon earth; all which we ask in the name of Jesus Christ our Lord, to Whom, with the Father and Thee, O Holy Ghost, be ascribed all honor and glory, world without end. Amen.

THE GOSPEL.

THE 203D HYMN.

Thou, God, all glory, honor, power,
Art worthy to receive;
Since all things by Thy power were made,
And by Thy bounty live.

And worthy is the Lamb all power,
Honor, and wealth to gain,
Glory and strength; Who for our sins
A sacrifice was slain.

All worthy Thou, Who hast redeem'd
And ransom'd us to God,
From every nation, every coast,
By Thy most precious blood.

Blessing and honor, glory, power, By all in earth and heaven, To him that sits upon the throne, And to the Lamb, be given.

AT 3 O'CLOCK P. M.

THE 277TH HY:MN.

With one consent let all the earth
To God their cheerful voices raise;
Glad bomage pay with awful mirth,
And sing before Him songs of praise.

Convinced that He is God alone,
From Whom both we and all proceed;
We, whom He chooses for His own,
The flock that He vouchsafes to feed.

O enter then His temple gate,
Thence to His courts devoutly press;
And still your grateful hymns repeat,
And still His name with praises bless.

For He's the Lord, supremely good,
His mercy is forever sure;
His truth, which always firmly stood,
To endless ages shall endure.

God of our fathers, by Whose hand Thy people still are blest, Be with us through our pilgrimage; Conduct us to our rest.

Through each perplexing path of life Our wandering footsteps guide; Give us each day our daily bread, And raiment fit provide. O spread Thy sheltering wings around
Till all our wanderings cease,
And at our Father's loved abode
Our souls arrive in peace.

Such blessings from Thy gracious hand
Our humble prayers implore;
And Thou, the Lord, shalt be our God
And portion evermore.

ADDRESS.

One hundred and ninety-six years ago Episcopal services were held for the first time within the limits of Rhode Island, and in 1702 Trinity Church, Newport, was established and a church edifice erected. In response to an application made to the Lords of the Council of Trade and Plantations, through the Earl of Bellemont, Governor of Massachusetts, the Rev. James Honeyman was sent to Rhode Island as a missionary, by the "Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in Foreign Parts," with an appropriation of seventy pounds a year. He entered upon his duties in 1704, and the Church under his ministry grew and flourished to such a degree that in 1726 it was found necessary to erect a more spacious building, in place of the original church. "It was acknowledged by the people of that day," as we read in the ancient annals, "to be the most beautiful timber structure in America," and except for an enlargement in length, made in 1772, it remains unaltered to the present day, with its high square pews, its ponderous galleries, its lofty pulpit in the middle aisle, surmounted by a pagoda-shaped sounding-board, and a spacious reading pew and clerk's desk in front, with a very contracted chancel in the rear, and the tall, painted rods indicating the Wardens' pews.

That Mr. Honeyman was of a generous disposition appears in the fact that he contributed not less than thirty pounds out of his little stipend towards the erection of the new church, and the historian informs us that he was also kind-hearted and conciliatory, "living on good terms with other religious persuasions; all of which he embraced with the arm of charity." In one of his earlier reports to the Society in England he says, "That he preached twice every Sunday, catechises twice a week, and administers sacrament every month, and has baptized in about two years seventy-three persons, of whom nineteen are adults." In 1732 he writes to a friend, "I take the pleasure of telling you this known truth, that betwixt New York and Boston, the distance of three hundred miles, and wherein are many missions, there is not a congregation to compare with mine, or equal to it in any respect; nor does my church consist of members that were of it when I came here, for I have buried them all." It is a fact worth noting that as early as the year 1713 the Wardens and Vestry of Trinity Church, Newport, petitioned the Queen for the establishment of Bishops in America, "setting forth the great benefit that would result to the Church from such a measure."

On the 3d of September, 1729, it being one of the holy-days when divine service was held in the church, a letter was delivered to Mr. Honeyman in the pulpit, announcing that a ship had just reached the harbor, having on board "a great dignitary of the Church of England, called Dean," whereupon the congregation was at once dismissed with the benediction, and they all repaired to the wharf to receive the Dean and his friends. It was no less a personage than the great and good Berkeley, whose eloquent and instructive preaching during his residence here attracted large congregations, and was of great service in setting forward the interests of the Church in Newport. On his return to England, in 1731, he sent as a gift to Trinity Church the organ which is still to be seen there, with its gilded crown flanked by two mitres, a token of the munificence of this saintly man to the Church, which he had adorned by his presence and hallowed by his holy ministrations.

The benefactions of the Venerable Society in England to this parish continued without abatement until 1752, when a reduction of twenty pounds was made in the stipend, and in order to make up the deficit it was necessary to levy an annual tax, "nearly all the pewholders," as we are informed, "submitting to the same." As Newport was at this time one of the richest and most flourishing towns on the seacoast, the reduction on the part of the English Society would seem to have been justifiable. After the lapse of about seventy years the Society withdrew its aid altogether, and the parish was thrown upon its own resources for its support.

The Rev. Mr. Honeyman continued in office for nearly fifty years, dying of extreme old age in 1750. There have been but two other Rectors of Trinity Church who have retained their connection with the parish until death,— the Rev. Marmaduke Brown, who died in 1771, after a ministry of eleven years, and the Rev. Dr. Isaac P. White, who died in 1875, who also had served the Church for eleven years.

From the death of Mr. Honeyman until the War of the Revolution the changes in the Rectorship were frequent, and after the evacuation of the town by the British troops services were suspended for a time, and the use of the Church given to a Six-principle Baptist Society. From the date when the regular worship of the Church was resumed there is little in the records which it would be profitable to recall until the Rev. Mr. Dehon, afterward the Bishop of South Carolina, entered upon his duties as Rector in 1791, when harmony was restored, and the Church entered upon a new career of prosperity.

On the opposite side of the Bay, along the Narragansett shore, a number of respectable and wealthy families had taken up their abode, and in 1707 what is known as the Narragansett Church was erected and opened for public worship. The Rev. Christopher Bridges was the first Pastor, and in 1721 the Rev. Dr. McSparran came over from England and took charge of the Church until his death, which occurred in 1759. He was the most conspicuous clergyman sent to Rhode Island by the Society in England, and his published writings give us a vivid, although it may be a somewhat one-sided and exaggerated picture of the times. In 1747 he preached before a Convention of the clergy in Trinity Church, Newport, and in 1751 he published a discourse on "The Dignity of the Christian Priesthood," which led to one of those violent ecclesiastical controversies which were not uncommon in the good old times, when the zeal of earnest men was wont to outrun the bounds of discretion and decency.

Three years after the death of Dr. McSparran, he was succeeded by the Rev. Samuel Fayerweather, a graduate of Harvard. In 1774 we read of his preaching in King's Chapel, Boston, before General Gage and his officers, and in November of the same year he made his last entry in the parish records, the majority of the Society objecting to the use of the prayers for the King and Royal Family, and during the next ten years no services were held, the church being used as a barrack for the American soldiers. In 1784 nine persons met together, and steps were taken for resuscitating the Church, which had become almost extinct. The region in which the old church was placed had become in a great measure depopulated, and in 1798 it was resolved to move the edifice five miles further north, where it still stands in excellent preservation, and continues to be used in the afternoon, during the summer months, although another and more commodious church has been erected in its immediate vicinity. This is the oldest Episcopal church now existing in the northern portion of the land, and its primitive features remain for the most part undisturbed.

In 1719 a parish was organized in Bristol, under the name of St. Michael's Church. The Rev. Mr. Orem was sent over from England, and the sum of 1,400 pounds was contributed for the erection of a church. On the arrival of Mr. Orem, "he found a wooden building with the outside and steeple finished, but nothing done to the inside; but so desirous was the little flock to join in the worship of the church, that on Saturday evening rough boards were laid for a floor, and service was performed on the next day." In about a year Mr. Orem removed to New York, and the Rev. John Usher was appointed in his place; a man whose labors were signally blessed, and whose hallowed influence and honored name have been perpetuated in Bristol to the present day. Seven hundred and thirteen persons were baptized during his ministry. We are told that "he made the welfare of the church the whole business of his existence, and was called to suffer such deprivations and hardships as few of the clergy are called to endure at the present day." Until the year 1746 Bristol was included within the jurisdiction of Massachusetts, and the Episcopalians were taxed for the support of the Congregational minister. but, notwithstanding this, they continued to raise from 80 to 130 pounds annually for the expenses of their own church. It was, however, a little hard upon Mr. Usher, when, in 1730, the Vestry voted that henceforth the Rector should be called to support all the widows of the church. In 1778 the church was burnt to ashes by a band of British soldiers, and for a while the services were suspended,—the few who remained steadfast in the faith continuing to meet on Easter Monday and go through the usual form of electing Wardens and Vestrymen for the ensuing year. A new church was built in 1786, which is still standing, although it has long since ceased to be used for religious purposes. About forty years after this a much finer church was erected, which was destroyed by fire in 1860, when the present substantial stone church was built in its place.

The history of St. John's Church, Providence, I have already given at some length in a discourse delivered eighteen years ago on the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the parish, and as there are few persons living who have any recollection of that sermon I may be allowed to quote somewhat freely from its pages on the present occasion. In the year 1722, when the first Episcopal house of worship, known as King's Church, was erected in Providence, the township covered an area twenty-four miles square, with a population of about 4,000 persons. Among them there was a little band of Church people, who, as the record reads, "having resolved to get a minister and live like Christians," with some aid from Newport, Boston and other places, managed to erect a timber building for a church, and in two years a stated congregation of about one hundred persons were gathered there, with seventeen communicants. During the first thirty years of its existence there were four clergymen settled in the parish: the Rev. George Pigot, a man of fair scholarship and good character, who remained but a short time, having been, as the record declares, "of a roving disposition;" Joseph O'Harra, whose ministry was disgraceful, and terminated in the county jail; the Rev. Arthur Brown, a volume of whose sermons was published; and the Rev. John Checkley, who died in 1753. He was a native of Boston, all his predecessors having been sent out from England, educated in the Grammar school, and finishing his studies at the University of Oxford. On his return to Boston he published an edition of Leslie's "Short and Easy Methods with Deists," with an appendix of his own, "Concerning Episcopacy, in Defence of Christianity and the Church of England, against the Deists and Dissenters." In 1727 he went to England for the purpose of obtaining Orders, but it being represented to the Bishop of London that "he was a bitter enemy to other denominations, a non-juror, and that he had not a liberal education," the Bishop refused to ordain him. In 1739, when he had reached the mature age of fifty-nine, he renewed his application, and was ordained by the Bishop of Exeter. In the same year he became the Rector of King's Church, where he remained until his-He was an excellent linguist, well acquainted with Hebrew, Latin, Greek and Indian, "a favorite companion of learned and curious men," although, as we are told, "some were offended by his opinions, and others thought him too much of a wag for an intimate acquaintance."

In 1755 the Rev. John Graves was sent to take charge of the church in Providence by the "Society for the Propagation of the Gospel." "He will, I am fully persuaded," says the Secretary of that Society, "administer richly to you in spiritual things, and I hope you will not be scanty to him in carnal things, and therefore the Society expects and requires of you to purchase a good and decent house, with a good glebe annexed thereto, and pay him at least twenty pounds per annum." When it is considered that the Society had been from the beginning giving all these churches from sixty to seventy pounds yearly, the demands that were made of their American beneficiaries to contribute towards their own support were not very extravagant.

Mr. Graves continued to officiate until July, 1776, "when he was pleased to absent himself from duty, though very earnestly requested to keep up the worship, saying he could not, as prayers for King George were forbidden." At the close of the war he asked to be re-instated in his office, but the request was refused.

In the records of the Vestry we read from time to time of the Rector being appointed chairman of the committee to draw up a scheme for the next lottery, and of the sale of so many square feet on the floor of the church, with directions to those persons proposing to build pews thereon not to exceed the prescribed height, and various other matters touching upon the censures to be inflicted upon contumacious parishioners, the duties of the sexton, the care of the church furniture and vestments, the rights of interment, the use of the parish pall, and so on.

The four churches of which I have now spoken are the only ones, established here during the last century, that have survived. In 1728 a church, two stories in height, with a steeple and spire, was erected on the post-road near East Greenwich, which was taken down about the year 1764 by the inhabitants of Old Warwick, with the intention of erecting a church there. It is only within ten years that this purpose has been fulfilled, and to-day there may be seen on the altar of St. Mary's Chapel, Warwick Neck, a folio copy of the Holy Scriptures, and another of the Book of Common Prayer, in perfect preservation, presented by the Lord Bishop of London to the Warwick Church in 1750.

At a very early period a large lot of land was deeded by Ninigret, the Chief of the Narragansett Indians, for the erection of a church in the town of Westerly, which Dr. McSparran speaks of as having been the result of his labors in that vicinity; the history of which has passed into oblivion.

If time permitted I would be glad to linger amid these scenes of old, but, for the present, we must be content with this very meagre sketch of the ninety years that preceded the organization of the church in Rhode Island as a diocese.

Let us, however, before we finally turn away from this period in our history, imagine ourselves to be in attendance at King's Church, Providence, during the ministry of one of its earlier Rectors. The bell tolls for prayer at nine o'clock on Sunday morning; the people have assembled, arrayed in the brilliant costumes of the times; the side-men have taken their places, staff in hand, for the preservation of due order and decorum; the service is reverently read after the stately old English custom and in strict accordance with the rubric; the clerk responds sonorously; the choir sing, with little regard for musical science, one or more of the metrical psalms of Tate and Brady, chanting being as yet a thing unknown, and somewhat dreaded as having a flavor of Popery, and the minister, in black gown and bands and silk gloves, ascends the pulpit, solemnly ushered by the sexton, and delivers a short sermon, not overburdened with original thought, very possibly not original at all, free from the slightest taint of fanaticism, decidedly anti-Calvinistic, and reminding one of Seneca rather than of St. Paul. I do not know what effect the repetition of one of these 18th century sermons would produce upon a congregation in our day, with its superabundant classical illustrations, its commonplace similitudes, its tedious arguments to prove what nobody would ever think of denying, its sweeping postulates, assumed without argument, which it would be difficult or impossible to maintain, its occasional ferocity of diction, altogether out of proportion to the thought or the logic, a style of preaching not at all peculiar to our own communion, and how it was possible for our forefathers to listen to such preaching and profit by it, may be regarded as a mystery. And yet, I presume that they did listen and get some good from it.

If it was not fitted to make very saintly men, it stood sentinel over the proprieties and amenities and moralities of life, and taught the current virtues of good citizenship, -honesty, sobriety, thrift, economy, and industry. It helped to make children obedient, and parents considerate and kind, and servants truthful and faithful. If it did not fully apprehend the breadth of Christ's purpose in establishing His kingdom on earth, if the Church was regarded rather as an organic structure than as a living, spiritual power, still it was true to her ministry and order and ordinances, and those services edified and comforted the people, regulated and elevated the plane of common life, and the Sundays and holy days made men understand and feel that there is something higher to live for than the greed of gain, or the follies of fashion, or the appetites of the body, or the rewards of ambition. If Christ was not preached in all his fullness, and the power of the cross brought home with much earnestness to the souls of sinners, and believers were not led along the heights of grace, the way of salvation was indicated, and we doubt not that many, even under this somewhat dry and dreary regimen, with a Liturgy in their hands, pervaded through and through with the truth and spirit of Christ, found peace in believing.

I would not be understood to say that there were none of the preachers in the last century who appealed effectively to the heart and conscience, and fed their flocks with something more substantial than dessicated ethical precepts and rigid ecclesiastical formulas. There were godly men in those days, whose influence continues to be felt down to the present hour; but it was an age when the standard of religious fervor everywhere was low, and the number of men who were distinguished for theological learning and effective preaching was comparatively small.

Then the want of a complete organization was a serious hindrance to the growth of the colonial churches. The church in this country was Episcopal only in name, and lacked the advantages which are supposed to grow out of its peculiar polity. Every candidate for Orders must cross the ocean, at great expense and some risk of life, to receive his ordination, or the churches be content with such clerical material as floated over from the other side of the ocean; there was no effective supervision of the clergy, no accessible court of appeal in the case of a dispute, no synodical action, and no diocesan boundaries. No church could be consecrated and no person confirmed. In brief there was nothing but the Liturgy to distinguish this church from other Protestant denominations. The Bishop of London, in his palace at Fulham, could have no oversight of the fold, and discipline was impossible. Under these circumstances it is not at all strange that the Episcopal church failed to make any substantial progress, or obtain any stronger hold upon the community at large.

In 1790, one hundred years ago, we enter upon a new period in our history. The first Diocesan Convention was held in Newport, consisting of two clergymen and five laymen, three parishes being represented. It was the day of small things, and all the proceedings of this body are comprised within two printed pages; but the work which they accomplished was by no means unimportant. place they accepted the Canons adopted by the General Convention the previous year, with one valuable addition, prescribing the testimonials to be produced by candidates for Holy Orders, very much in the same terms as we have them now. They then approved of and recommended the use of the revised Book of Common Praver. They next voted that the Church of this State be united under a Bishop, and the Rt. Rev. Samuel Seabury, D. D., is declared Bishop of the Church in Rhode Island. A Standing Committee is elected, and a committee appointed to represent to the Churches in Bristol and Narragansett the disadvantages resulting from the want of a regular ordained minister, and with thanks to the Rev. Mr. Smith for his excellent discourse delivered this day, the Convention adjourned.

In 1793 Bishop Seabury takes his seat as the Presiding Officer of the Convention, and at this session the first Ordination was held in the new Diocese. At a General Convention, held about this time, nine States were represented, and Rhode Island appears at the head of the list, accredited with the presence of two delegates, but they actually resided in Connecticut, and acted as the representatives of this Diocese in pursuance of a vote of the Convention requesting them to do so.

In 1795 a Constitution, consisting of thirteen articles, was adopted for the Protestant Episcopal Church in the State of Rhode Island.

In 1798 the Rt. Rev. Dr. Bass, of Massachusetts, was elected Bishop of Rhode Island, Bishop Seabury having died in 1796, and from this time the connection between the two States of Connecticut and Rhode Island ceased. The office was accepted by Bishop Bass, but he was never present at any meeting of the Convention.

Ten years have passed away and the Church has made no progress. When the Convention met in the year 1800, but one parish was represented, and that one only by laymen, and this is the entire record: "No representative appearing from the other churches in the State, it is expedient to adjourn without day."

In 1806, after the death of Bishop Bass, the Diocese was put in charge of Bishop Moore, of New York, but there is no record of his visiting the Diocese. On the roll of the Convention appears, for the first time, the name of the Rev. Alexander V. Griswold, as the Rector of St. Michael's Church, Bristol, who afterwards became so intimately associated with the interests of the Church, not only in Rhode Island, but also throughout the larger part of New England.

To those of you who were familiar with the stately form and melodious voice of one who was so long the Senior Presbyter of this Diocese, as he sat with us here in Convention, mingling earnestly and actively in its debates, and helping to shape its counsels, it must seem very strange to read in the far-off Journal of 1807, eighty-three years ago, this entry, "The Rev. Nathan Bourne Crocker presided President." For nearly sixty years he was closely identified with all the proceedings of the Church in Rhode Island, and by the purity of his life, the gentleness of his spirit, and the earnestness of his ministra-tions, he won a place for himself in our hearts, and left an impression for good upon the whole Church that will not soon be effaced. At this Convention the initiatory steps were taken which resulted in the formation of the Eastern Diocese and the union of all the New Engand States, with the exception of Connecticut, under the jurisdiction of one Bishop.

Ten years more have elapsed and there is still nothing on record to show that any advance has been made in the growth of the Church in 1810. There were only three clergymen present in Convention and three parishes represented.

In 1812 the Convention assembled under the Presidency of the Rt. Rev. Dr. Griswold, who had just been elected Bishop of the Eastern Diocese, while he still retained the Rectorship of St. Michael's Church, Bristol. For the space of thirty-two years he discharged the duties of his extensive jurisdiction with such a degree of wisdom and moderation, with such a sincere humility, joined to the most inflexible firmness, with so much zeal and holy earnestness untainted by the slightest touch of weak fanaticism, as well entitled him to the honored place long since assigned him amongst the revered and saintly fathers of the Church. He was the first Bishop whom I ever knew; I was confirmed, ordained and married by him, and for some time was an inmate of his family. How well I recall that cold winter afternoon, forty-seven years ago, when I saw him, a few minutes after his death, lying on the floor of Bishop Eastburn's study, on whose door-step he had fallen, never to rise again, with his calm and placid face and beautiful silvered locks, lying there in the dark blue flowing garment that he always wore in the winter season,

"Like a warrior taking his rest,
With his martial cloak around him."

As the evening shades drew on, I accompanied his lifeless body to the home from which he had gone forth that afternoon for the last time, and there with my own hands I arrayed his body for the burial.

"The sweet remembrance of the just Shall flourish while he sleeps in dust."

In 1813 the first statistical reports appear in the Journal of the Convention, showing that there were only 254 communicants in the Diocese, St. Paul's, South Kingstown, making no report. During the year there had been 137 baptisms, 106 of these being in St. Michael's Church, under the ministration of Bishop Griswold.

In 1816 the spell is broken, and a new Church appears upon the record, St. Paul's, Pawtucket, the first parish that came into existence here under the auspices of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States of America. Tradition tells us that the formation of this Church was the result of Dr. Crocker's missionary labors, he having been accustomed to hold services in Pawtucket on Sunday evenings, after his work at home was over.

Two years later the name of Christ Church, Chepachet, appears in the Journal, and the same parish re-appears in 1819 as Christ Church, Glocester, and this is all that is ever heard of it.

About this time the first indication of a missionary spirit in the Diocese appears, and the Bishop is requested to appoint a missionary in this State, the Convention engaging to furnish such sum for his services as the Bishop shall name. It is also recommended to the Clergy to preach on the subject and have a contribution made in their congregations on a certain Sunday, and still further it is recommended to form Sunday Charity Schools for instruction in reading the Scriptures, and in the principles and doctrines of the Church.

The day star is now dawning, but the darkness still lingers. In 1820, thirty years after the first Convention was held, there are but 535 communicants in the Diocese, and only four Churches represented in Convention.

Three years after this we find the first entry of missionary contributions, amounting to $639.20.

In 1826 a movement was started to raise a fund of $2,000 for the support of the Episcopate, of which nothing further is heard.

The conservatism of the Convention appears in their action, when, in 1827, certain alterations in the Liturgy and Constitution of the Church, proposed by the House of Bishops and House of Clerical and Lay Deputies, were submitted for approval. The subject was taken up, and after a little debate the question was put, "Will this Convention approbate the proposed alteration?" When the negative appeared almost unanimously.

In 1830, after the Diocese had been in existence forty years, we find two more churches added to the list, Grace Church, Providence; and St. Mark's Warren. In 1832 St. Paul's Church, South Kingstown; Trinity Church, Pawtuxet; and St. James's Church, Smithfield, were admitted into union with the Convention. In 1835 the following new parishes appear: St. Luke's, Tower Hill; St. Paul's, Portsmouth; St. Luke's, East Greenwich; Christ Church, Lonsdale; Christ Church, Westerly; St. Peter's, Kingston; and Emmanuel Church, Manville. At this Convention all the clergymen entitled to seats were present, and a large delegation of the laity. Everything at this period indicates a wonderful awakening of spiritual life, and from this time the Church begins to move on with a quickened pace. The voluminous parochial reports are full of the most intense expressions of religious fervor, and read like earnest and impassioned sermons.

At this Convention a movement is made for the relief of Bishop Griswold from some portion of his duties, by providing for the support of an assistant minister in his parish, as, up to this time he was obliged to traverse the whole Eastern Diocese and also discharge all the duties incident to his Rectorship, which was now transferred to Massachusetts, with no other provision for his support but the salary received from the parish that he served. It was not a very exorbitant sum assessed by the Convention of the Eastern Diocese, only $400 per annum, of which $100 was charged to Rhode Island, the Rev. Dr. Crocker and the Rev. Mr. Bristed personally pledging themselves for this amount. With some considerable caution, the Convention agreed to redeem this pledge, the Committee on Finance, in their very dignified report, "Subjoining the expression of our opinion that, although we disclaim the legal right of taxation, we have a surer hold upon the resources of the Church in this State, in the self-respect and concern it ought to feel for the proper support of every branch of its ecclesiastical interest."

In 1840 the semi-centennial Convention assembled in St. Paul's Church, Pawtucket, at which time there were 17 Clergymen in the Diocese and 19 Churches. The sermon was preached by the Rev. Henry Waterman, and as he had been in Orders only four years, his selection to be the preacher on this occasion was a very marked indication of the position that he held among the Clergy, and in richness of thought, felicity of diction, aptness in rare and pertinent quotatations, as well as in the pious fervor of his preaching, he was to the end of his life excelled by few. I have regretted to find that this sermon makes no direct allusion to the history and condition of the Diocese.

At this Convention a committee was appointed to prepare an historical sketch of the Diocese, who made their report two years afterward, and this was disposed of by a vote directing the committee "to publish such part or parts of the Report as might seem proper in the Christian Witness or other papers, without expense to the Convention,"—a gentle way of consigning it to oblivion.

Three years afterwards Bishop Griswold was removed by death, and the Eastern Diocese was dissolved. A special Convention was called to elect a Bishop for Rhode Island alone, and the choice fell upon the Rev. John Prentiss Kewly Henshaw, D. D., at that time the Rector of an important Church in Baltimore, and in the Annual Convention of 1843 he appeared and took his seat on the right of the President. In the August following he was consecrated in St. John's Church, Providence. It so happened that I was in this city at the time, for the purpose of delivering a Missionary address at Grace Church, and of course I attended the consecration services, with very little thought that it would ever be my lot to take up Bishop Henshaw's work when his earthly career was over. The newly elected Bishop found his Diocese in a sound and vigorous condition. Before his coming a great degree of enthusiasm had been aroused, and, mainly through the instrumentality of the Missionary Convocation, many new Churches had been established. Such men as John Bristed, and John A. Clark, Nathan B. Crocker, and James M. Pratt, and George Taft, and Alexander H. Vinton, and Henry Waterman, with other like-minded men, full of the Holy Ghost and inspired with an earnest zeal for the salvation of souls, had been laboring for years to elevate the standard of religion in the Church and to extend its borders, and Bishop Henshaw came in at the right time to reap the fruits of their toil. This he did with no diminution of the fervor which had moved the hearts of the men who had gone before him; tempering his course with a somewhat higher tone of churchmanship than that which had characterized most of the older clergy, but never giving offence by any extreme of doctrine or excessive rigidity in matters of form and usage. He was a wise as well as an earnest man, and never spared himself when there was anything to be done for his Master. Grace Church, Providence, is his monument, and but for his untiring and patient efforts, that Church might to-day have been in the possession of some other religious body than our own. During the term of his Episcopate, which continued from August 11, 1843, to July 20, 1852, Bishop Henshaw ordained 15 Deacons, 16 priests, and confirmed 975 persons in his own Diocese. At the time of his death there were 22 Churches and 31 Clergy in his Diocese.

It was while in the act of performing official duties for one of his brethren in a distant diocese that he was suddenly removed by death, and at a special convention, called in 1852, after a suitable recognition of his valuable services and an expression of the deepest sympathy and sorrow in view of his departure from earth, the Rev. Dr. Francis L. Hawks was elected Bishop of the Diocese. The Rt. Rev. George Burgess, D. D., was requested to take charge of the Diocese during the ensuing year.

In 1853, the announcement was made that Dr. Hawks declined to accept, and it was resolved not to proceed at once to another election; Bishop Williams, of Connecticut, being invited to discharge Episcopal duties in Rhode Island.

A special convention was called in 1854, for the purpose of electing a Bishop, there being present twenty-four of the clergy and seventy-one of the laity. On the second day the present incumbent was elected, and received his consecration in Grace Church, Providence, on the 6th of December following. Not the remotest suggesgestion had ever reached me that my name had been thought of in connection with the Episcopate of Rhode Island, and no one could be more astonished than I was when the fact of my election was communicated. Of those who participated in that election, the Rev. Dr. Henshaw is the only clergyman remaining amongst us, and there may be now living some two or three laymen who were present on that occasion.

It has been my privilege to preside in thirty-six Annual Conventions of the Diocese; but a new generation has come upon the scene, it is not the same body that I used to address more than thirty years ago, the same familiar voices are not heard here, the same faces do not appear, almost all who once joined in our deliberations and guided our counsels, have crossed the dark river, and will be seen here no more. In the House of Bishops I find but two left out of the thirty-eight that were enrolled when I entered its doors, and more than sixty of our number have, since that date, passed into the land of silence.

I have not much to say as to the details of the last thirty or forty years, they have been marked by no striking events, the Diocese has been for the most part peaceful and united, and we have moved on with a quiet and steady pace, and as rapidly perhaps as could be expected in an old and established community. At the time of my election there were 28 clergymen in the Diocese, 20 of whom are now dead; there are now 58 connected with the Diocese. There were 23 churches and chapels, and there are now 53. I have consecrated 36 churches and chapels, and one more has been built which remains not consecrated.

Twenty-six Rectories have been erected or purchased, and three important charitable institutions established: St. Mary's Orphanage, the St. Elizabeth Home, and the Grace Memorial Home. Ninety-eight persons have been admitted as candidates for Holy Orders, of whom 72 have been admitted to the Diaconate, and 68 have been ordained Priests. The whole number of baptisms is 22,187, not including those baptized during the last year, and there have been 13,624 persons confirmed.

The number of Sunday-School teachers has increased from 346 to 938, and of scholars from 2,236 to 8,610, as reported last year. The roll of communicants has increased from 2,614 to 9,102. In 1854 the amount of the offerings for Missions and church charities was reported to be $10,167; last year it was $60,867, and in addition $154,989 for the support of public worship. During the last 35 years the whole amount reported is $3,245,851; $1,374,934 being for mission work, and the remainder for parish purposes. Until the year 1866, no report was made of the latter contributions. It is impossible to estimate the full amount of money that has been raised for religious and charitable work; but it is gratifying to know that, although our churches have never been over-liberal in furnishing the means for carrying on their Diocesan missions, this Diocese is proportionally the largest contributor to our General Foreign and Domestic Board, and its actual contributions are exceeded by only four other Dioceses. It still remains true that we are far from approaching the standard that we ought to reach, for this is a wealthy Diocese and bound to provide liberally for the help of those who are in need of aid.

The compactness of the Diocese has been favorable to its growth. There are but one or two other Dioceses where the proportion of communicants to the whole population is as large as it is in Rhode Island, and there is scarcely a village of any considerable size where our services are not established. With such a limited area that I can reach the most distant parish in the space of an hour, it is easy to keep all the destitute regions in view, and wherever there is an opening for the Church, with a fair prospect of success in starting a new mission or parish, we cannot help seeing it. The advance of the Church in Rhode Island has been in a great degree the result of direct missionary effort; we have now 15 mission stations, and 17 of our self-sustaining parishes, some of them among the strongest and richest in the Diocese, owe their existence to missionary zeal.

The limits of our territory are such as allow the clergy to live together upon terms of more familiar intercourse than is possible in our larger Dioceses. Instead of seeing each other only once in a year at the session of the Annual Convention, they can assemble every month, as has been their custom, to confer together and consider the subjects in which they have a common interest, and the absolute freedom with which the most delicate questions are discussed, the mutual forbearance on the part of those who differ most widely in opinion, the growing feeling, as the result of this free and candid conference, that, with all their differences, they are working for the same great end and trying to serve the same Master,-all this has tended in some degree to free our clergy from that narrowness of vision which is apt to come upon them, when they live and labor alone, while it serves to correct the acerbity of spirit, which almost always develops itself, when they come together for the purpose of assault, and not with the desire to find out how it is that good men can look at the same truth from such different angles of vision.

It is difficult for those who are now coming on the stage to appreciate the extraordinary changes that have been developed in the Church since the semi-centennial of our Convention was celebrated. If the good Bishop who was so much shocked, some fifty years ago, by an innovation in the old St. Stephen's Church in this city, which consisted in nothing but the introduction of a lecturn in place of a reading-desk, leaving the prayers to be said at the end of the altar, which is still the custom in the same church edifice, as to make it a matter of severe rebuke and earnest warning in his annual address, could revisit the earth to-day and look around upon the churches of his Diocese on a Sunday morning, and more especially on an Easter Day, it is not easy to imagine just what his emotions would be. Fifty years ago, not a cross was to be seen in any chancel or on the outside of any church, not a candle lighted or unlighted on any altar, not a flower about the premises on the occasion of any festival, not a colored or embroidered stole or vestment, nothing but the black gown ever seen in the pulpit, no acolytes in or about the chancel, no periodical changing of color in altar-cloths and bookmarks, no elaborate rinsings and wipings of the sacred vessels at the close of the Holy Communion, no surpliced choirs, no processionals or recessionals, no intonings and no chanting of versicles and creeds and amens, no announcement of masses or high and low celebration, no confessionals in churches or rectories, no bowing to the altar or turning to it except for purpose of convenience or when it was prescribed by the rubric, no variation whatever in the conduct of public service by which High Church could be distinguished from Low Church,—everything outwardly moved on in all quarters after the same fashion, and there was nothing in the air to indicate the wonderful changes that were soon to come.

It cannot be denied that in many respects a great advance and improvement has been seen. Between forty and fifty years ago I was rector of a church, built on a heathen model of the temple of Bacchus, with large imitation wine-butts in bronze on each side of the chancel, with carved Bacchantes as the ornaments of the chancel-rail, the pulpit being in the form of an Egyptian cenotaph with its outstretched wings and other peculiar symbolism, and in place of an altar there was a recess in front of the reading-desk with a marble slab on which the sacramental vessels were placed. No such church as this would be erected now, and the peculiar features of the edifice which I have just described were years ago removed. The adornments of our churches in these days are usually appropriate and seemly, even when they may be thought somewhat excessive, and the prevailing mode of conducting our services is richer and more attractive than it was in days gone by. same time it is not to be forgotten that, with the reaction from the dryness and barrenness that once existed in many of our churches, our present danger may lie in the direction of excess and exaggeration in outward ornament and symbolism, and we must be on our guard against the introduction of practices which are offensive to sensible people, because they are puerile, or dangerous and mischievous, because they represent a doctrine which is foreign to our communion.

In the department of Christian activity a wonderful advance has been made. Not only have our public services been greatly multiplied and every effort made to render them more attractive, not only have we enlarged the sphere of our direct missionary work at home and abroad, but we have also established a multitude of agencies for bringing the influence of the Church to bear upon all the various phases of society,—guild-houses, libraries, reading-rooms, gymnasiums, hospitals, halls of rescue, homes of various descriptions, orphanages, orders of the St. Andrew's cross, and the Iron cross, and the Red cross, and the White cross, King's daughters, deaconesses, brotherhoods and sisterhoods, societies in honor of all the female saints in the Calendar,—the time would fail me to enumerate them all. The question here arises again, whether this popular tendency to increase the machinery of the Church may not be carried to excess.

As might have been expected, there has been a corresponding enlargement in the range of subjects brought within the cognizance of the Church and discussed in our pulpits. The time has been when the Episcopal Church was supposed, more than almost any other denomination of Christians, to stand aloof from the great social questions of the day, confining herself strictly to matters ecclesiastical and doctrinal. To-day this Church is conspicuous for its practical interest in everything that pertains to the moral and physical good of the community. Such subjects as the civil service reform and political reform in general, the adjustment of capital and labor, the monopoly of land, the elevation of the secular press, the purification of our popular literature, the rescue of the fallen and the abatement of social vice, the great temperance movement, the substitution of coffee-houses and other wholesome places of resort in place of the drinking saloon, the prevention of cruelty to children and animals, the wiping out of filthy and wretched tenement houses, the surest way of lifting the poor out of the mire, -these are the kinds of subjects which now, to a great extent, interest the Church; as the conviction has been slowly forced upon us that it was the original design of this institution not only to save men from suffering hereafter, but also in every possible way to elevate their condition while they are living here on earth.

In the domain of thought and opinion there has been a great change in the last fifty years.

It is very suggestive to observe how little interest the present generation feel in the controversies which, within the memory of some of us, shook the Church to its foundations, and also to see how the old party lines, which seemed as if they must be indelible, have gradually faded out and become extinct. We have at last discovered that some of those old discussions relate to matters which lie beyond the compass of our finite understandings, and still further that they might not be found to have any very direct relations to our personal duty, if they were capable of being solved. The circle of dogmatic speculation has been steadily narrowing, and there is now a gravitation towards certain great fundamental principles, as constituting the essentials of the Christian faith.

That gravitation is more and more towards Christ, -not merely as the Author of our religion and the Head and Founder of the Church, not merely as the centre around which all our doctrinal beliefs are to cluster, but as the very sum and substance of our faith; a Being who does not need to be authenticated by external signs or Scripture texts, or ecclesiastical authority; but One, who authenticates Himself; whose existence is the great standing miracle; who could never have been if He had not been filled with all the fullness of the Godhead; a Being who authenticates Himself to us personally, by finding us in our sin and misery, and giving us the only thing that could lift us out of our degradation and save us from despair; by taking upon Himself that burden of the past, which no effort of ours could lighten; by infusing into us His grace, so that we become holy, as He is holy; by inclining us to do His work, so that we shall not have lived entirely in vain; by leading us on through the darkness and the storm, and at last allowing us, worn and weary with the toils and sorrows of life, to lie down and sleep in Him.
